The Ivo Hammet copy with his name stamp on front endpaper.

London; B. White, T. Cadell, & P. Elmsly; 1776.

The First Botanical Work Relating To Australia. When Sir Joseph Banks withdrew from Cook's second voyage, the Admiralty appointed a German scientist of English descent, Johann Reinhold Forster, as naturalist. He took with him his son, Georg Adam Forster, as assistant and later engaged the Swedish naturalist, Anders Sparrman, at the Cape. The Forsters were difficult and unpopular members of the expedition and on their return a dispute arose concerning the publication of the official account of the voyage. J.R. Forster claimed that he had been promised the writing of the account, whereas Lord Sandwich, First Lord of the Admiralty, determined that Cook should write it. Despite Sandwich's attempts at compromise, Forster was eventually barred from any part in the official account and there ensued a series of books and publications from and against Forster, over all of which hung the angry shadow of that dispute. Although the "Characteres.." has not been highly regarded for its science, it is "Important to the history and science of botany, as it contains a large number of new generic and specific names relating to the plants of Australia and Polynesia vegetation" (Hill). Despite the considerable scientific achievements of Cook's three voyages, the Forsters' work is one of very few scientific publications resulting from them. Click here to Order

An extraordinary account of the life in the Colonies of New South Wales, South Australia and the Port Phillip District. The Author dines with the newly arrived Captain Lonsdale at Melbourne. Convinced that an overland route for cattle was needed between the Eastern State [Port Phillip district] and the newly formed South Australia he does just that along the Murray River and what would later become the Victorian State borders with 1200 hundred sheep and 300 hundred cattle, swimming rivers, and surviving a lightning strike that kills two bullocks within 4 yards of him. Excellent description of Aboriginal Australians and the flora and fauna. Click here to Order

Birmingham/Alabama; The Classics of Medicine Library; 1978.

The book is Jenners observations and interpretations based on 23 case reports, the book changed the course of history and ultimately resulted in the global elimination of a heretofore constant pestilential companion of humanity. Arguably, his contribution to biomedical research stands first among the great contributions. He founded the fields of immunology and vaccinology, and shed light on the dark and frightening face of epidemic infectious disease. Click here to Order

JUKES, J. BEETE.

Narrative of the Surveying Voyage of H.M.S. Fly, Commanded by Captain F. P. Blackwood, R. N. in Torres Strait, New Guinea, and other Islands of the Eastern Archipelago, During the Years 1842-1846: Together with an Excursion into the Interior of the Eastern Part of Java. Two Volumes.

First Edition; Demy 8vo; Vol. I. pp.[ii], xiv, 423; frontispiece, 24 b/w plates, 1 b/w folding map of Great Barrier Reef. Vol. II. pp. [ii], viii, 362; frontispiece, 11 illustrations, 1 folding map of island of Java, appendices; both volumes in contemporary half blue calf, marbled boards, title lettered in gilt on spines, raised bands, marbled page edges, marble endpapers, boards a little scuffed and worn at edges, light foxing to early pages, bookplate of William F Ross on front endpapers, good sound copies.

London; T. & W. Boone, New Bond Street; 1847.

Blackwood was commissioned to make a detailed scientific survey of the north-east coast of Australia, with particular attention to the Great Barrier Reef - the first expedition to be despatched to Australia on a purely surveying mission. Attached to the expedition were the marine geologist Joseph Beete Jukes, the zoologist John Macillivray, and the artist Harden Melville. From 1842 to 1846 they made a careful survey of the coast between Snady Cape and Torres Strait and explored the southern coasts of New Guinea, discovering most notably the Fly River. These surveys of Torres Strait and of the Great Barrier Reef were all of great importance, as were the discoveries made in new Guinea and the surrounding islands. Joseph Beete Jukes, the chronicler of the expedition, is remembered for both his scientific understanding of the reef and for his first charting of the reef. Wantrup. 92a, Ferguson, 4569. Click here to Order

Northern Territory Explorations, 1866. South Australian Parliamentary Papers 1865 - 66 Introduction Valmai Hankel.
Limited Deluxe Edition; Demy 8vo; pp. xxvi, 196; frontispiece, 2, fold-out maps, bound in original quarter black leather with brown cloth boards, title lettered in gilt on spine, gilt decoration on spine and upper board, original silk page marker, fine copy.
Adelaide; Friends of the State Library of South Australia; 1999.
The Friends of the State Library of South Australia has begun a new series which reproduces selected parliamentary papers. To make them easier to read, the format has been changed and the type set in a more legible size. Otherwise, the text has been copied exactly. The first title of the series reproduces South Australian parliamentary papers relating to John McKinlay's arrival at Escape Cliffs and his explorations in the Northern Territory in 1866. An illustration and a modern map have been added to complement the original text and map. Also, the 29 page introduction by Valmai Hankel has been added. Edition limited to 600 copies of which 99 are numbered and bound in quarter leather, this copy being number 38. Click here to Order

MALDON.

Unissued Share Certificate in the South German Reef Gold Company Maldon.

Certificate for 100 shares at 1 pound each; green background, red writing and decoration. Size 150mm. x 220mm.

Maldon, Vic.; A.R.W. Dabb, Manager. Registered Office, Main St. Maldon; n.d. (1890's).

The Maldon Quartz Reefing Field, although relatively small compared to others in the State, was extraordinary rich in gold. The hardness and heavy mineralisation of the rock containing the gold placed Maldon's mining companies in the vanguard for the installation and use of new technology. The South German Company began its mining career in the mid 1870s with the installation of steam-powered pumping and hauling plant. In 1886, its confidence increasing, the company erected a 20-head stamp battery, which was later increased to 30-head. In 1887, the company constructed pyrites ovens for burning the battery sand, preparatory to gold extraction. In the 1890s, the South German mine became one of the largest producers of gold in Victoria and was of great importance to the social and economic condition of Maldon. Click here to Order

POTTLE, FREDERICK A.

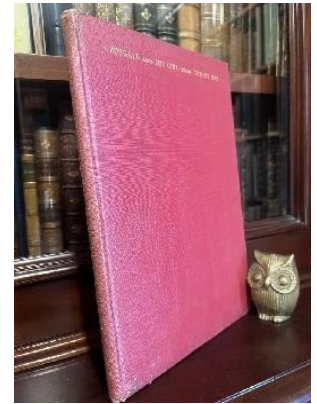

Boswell and The Girl from Botany Bay.

First Edition; Cr. 4to; pp. xii, 44; large fold-out map, 2 pages of illustrations, notes, bound in original red cloth, title lettered in gilt on spine and upper board, good copy.

London; William Heinemann Ltd.; 1938.

Frederick A. Pottle's "Boswell and the Girl from Botany Bay" offers a captivating glimpse into the life of James Boswell, the famed biographer, and his encounter with Mary Bryant, a convict from Botany Bay. Pottle masterfully intertwines history and narrative, exploring Boswell's complex character and his fascination with Mary's story. The book delves into themes of redemption, identity, and the transformative power of human connections. Pottle's prose is elegant and insightful, providing a vivid portrait of an unlikely friendship across social divides. "Boswell and the Girl from Botany Bay" is a poignant exploration of empathy and the search for understanding. Click here to Order
