Melbourne; Helen Daniel; 1979.

Helen Daniel was born in Woodend Victoria on July 6, 1946. She completed her secondary education at Camberwell High School and gained an arts degree at the University of Melbourne. She returned later in life to Melbourne University to study for a PhD in Australian fiction, which was conferred in 1980. She wrote book reviews for the Age in the early 1980's during which period she also ran a second-hand bookshop in Fitzroy. Her career as a critic and passionate champion of Australian literature steadily grew and she published three works of criticism and several anthologies. The most public phase of her career was when she was appointed editor of the "Australian Book Review" in 1994, a post she held until her sudden death on October 16, 2000. Click here to Order

1859 New South Wales. Defences of The Colony. Despatches, &c., Respecting. Presented to both Houses of Parliament by Command. First Edition; Foolscape folio; pp.38 (last blank); printed on blue tinted paper, bound in recent understated quarter calf, fine copy. Sydney; Thomas Richards, Government printer; 1859.

A scarce Government paper on the "Defence of the Town and Harbour of Sydney". Motivated chiefly by the memory of the Crimean War, the paper was a telling contribution to the then current policy of maintaining strong defences for the inner port of Sydney alone. With contribution from Governor William Denison (16 pages), Commodore William Loring (2 pages), Colonel Commanding Troops J. M. Perceval (2 pages), and Lieutenant-Colonel Geo. Barney (2 pages). While ultimate responsibility for defence remained with the central authority of the Empire the paper shows New South Wales taking increasing responsibility for its own defence. The submission is supported with a despatch from The Governor of Tasmania Sir Henry Young highlighting the need for increased naval presence in all the Australian colonies. The paper also details the building/repairs to a number of defences, Domain, Fort Denison, Fort Kirribilli, Dawes Battery and Fort Macquarie. Click here to Order

New York; D. Appleton And Company; 1904.

,Joel Chandler Harris (1848-1908), this book contains 26 of his Uncle Remus's stories, with the exception of the tar Baby story, they are all new to this publication of 1904 and cover a variety of humorous subjects from Adam and Eve (De Apple Tree) to Brer Rabbit's Giggin' Place. The stories were mostly collected directly from the African-American oral storytelling tradition, and were revolutionary in their use of dialect, animal personages, and serialized landscape. Second Thousand; Demy 8vo; pp. 32; original green printed stitched wrappers, very good copy.

Melbourne; Printed For The Author; 1872.

John Dunmore Lang (1799- 1878) was a Scottish-born Australian Presbyterian minister, writer, politician and activist. As a churchman Lang was wilful, egotistical (twice jailed for libel). He 'preached more of the Gospel than he practised'. Lang's writings are voluminous, his activities multifarious. His power of description is remarkable, his assessment of individuals perceptive even if at times coloured by his own prejudices. His egotism defies belief, but his achievements are quite astonishing and overshadow his religious contribution. Excluding his newspaper articles his published work runs to some 10,000 pages. Click here to Order

Part IX: pp. 354; illustrations throughout, bound in original stiff illustrated wrappers. Index Volume to first eight parts: pp. iv, 188; a very good set.

Bendigo; Various; 1912-2003.

The cumulative issues of the first nine parts of this highly regarded and much sought chronicle of Bendigo. This set of nine parts comes with the RARE index to the first eight parts compiled by Sandra Greenwell. The Annals of Bendigo are essentially a summary of news items as appearing in the Bendigo Advertiser newspaper since its commencement of publication in 1853. The Advertiser was the first newspaper published on the Victorian Goldfields. The value of a work of reference such as the Annals depends largely upon access to an adequate index. Hence the index which was published in 1988 has become a very sort after and rare after item. Click here to Order

H. M. Bark Endeavour: Her Place In Australian History; Two Volumes. With and Account of her Construction, Crew and Equipment and a Narrative of her Voyage on the East Coast of New Holland in the Year 1770. With Plans, Charts and Illustrations by the Author.

Demy 4to; Vol. I. pp. xii, 468; numerous text illustrations, charts and plans, Notes, Bibliography, Index of Individuals and Locations, Vol. II. Case of 15 detailed folding ship drawings and plans. Both volumes in original red cloth, titles lettered in gilt on spines and front boards, housed in original illustrated red cloth slipcase; a fine set. Melbourne; The Miegunyah Press; 1997.

H.M. Bark Endeavour is a fitting companion and supplement to the standard works on Cook's voyages. The work is the result of a most painstaking study of the Endeavour and a unique account of a great journey of discovery up the east coast of New Holland (Australia) in the year 1770. The text is accompanied by a series of plans and figures depicting the ship's architecture and construction, her deck plan, rigging, sails, armaments, boats, cables, anchors and accommodation. Lover of the Great Bear.

First UK Edition; Demy 8vo; pp. xiv, 427; bound in original publishers black cloth, title lettered in gilt on spine, unclipped dustjacket showing price as 10s 6d net, dustjacket with minor wear on edges, very good copy in a very good dustjacket.

London; George Routledge & Sons, Ltd.; 1938.

This first English edition of Lover of the Great Bear by Sergiusz Piasecki captures the rugged beauty and peril of Soviet-era smuggling along the Polish-Soviet border. The translation preserves the raw, visceral prose that made Piasecki a literary sensation. The edition features striking dustjacket by William Kermode evocative of its era. Piasecki's books were banned by communist censorship in the People's Republic of Poland. The book was adapted and made into a movie by Valentino Orsini in 1971. A tale of survival, love, and betrayal, this book is a testament to Piasecki's narrative genius and a fine acquisition for the collector of historical literature. Click here to Order

PRICE, JOHN WASHINGTON. (Transcribed and edited with an introduction by Pamela Jeanne Fulton).

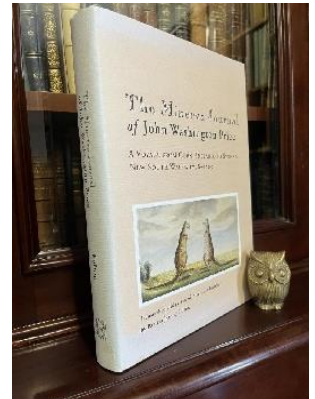

The Minerva Journal of John Washington Price: A Voyage from Cork, Ireland, to Sydney, New South Wales, 1798 - 1800.

First Edition; Demy 4to; pp. xviii, [ii], 290, [1]; illustrated title page, 3 maps, 29 colour plates, notes, appendix, bibliography, index, original brown cloth, red title label on spine, title lettered in gilt on spine label, dustjacket, silk page marker, fine copy.

Melbourne; The Miegunyah Press/Melbourne University Press; 2000.

John Washington Price was the surgeon of the transport Minerva which sailed from Cork for Sydney in 1799 carrying two hundred convicts. Many of them United Irishmen transported for their role in the 1798 rebellion. During the voyage price received lessons in drawing and natural history from fellow-traveller, the artist John William Lewin, and a highlight of the journal is the inclusion of Price's twenty-nine watercolour illustrations. In Sydney, where he stayed for a month, Price was a frequent visitor to Government House. He met such leading figures as Bennelong, Dr Balmain, D'Arcy Wentworth, George Barrington and Reverend Samuel Marsden and his observations of town life contain a great deal previously unrecorded information. WINZENRIED, ARTHUR.

Tram To Sorrento.

First Edition; Cr. 4to; pp. 55; 36 illustrations, 1 double page map, appendices, bound in original illustrated stapled wrappers, very good copy.

Melbourne; APW Productions; 1984.

Only Passengers were carried on the tramway, which operated during the tourist season, beginning on the 1st November and ending about the 30th June. An open cross bench four-wheel horse car provided the local service in the morning and after 7 p.m. when the steamers were running. The peak traffic was handled by the steam trams. In later years two trains were used, each being hauled by a small industrial Baldwin 0-4-0 locomotive pulling up to four crossbench trailers each. It was usual over one season for the Tramway to carry about 30,000 passengers at a fare of 6d. return. Click here to Order
